

Or, Leave the Crafting to the Pros...

Prefer to buy a beautifully hand-crafted item than make your own? Keep heading north for the American Craft Exposition, which returns to Evanston this weekend.

The items you'll find for sale at this annual event are more museum-quality than the Etsy-inspired pieces you may see at other craft shows. The 160 artists who are participating will be featuring baskets, ceramics, furniture (such as this table from Robert Erickson), glassware, jewelry, and more.

The show opens at 10 a.m. on Friday and Saturday; 11 a.m. on Sunday. Tickets are $15 at the door ($13 in advance online). And it all happens at the Henry Crown Sports Pavilion on Northwestern University's campus (2311 Campus Dr.).
